The Energized Guyz Headquarters

---

No fooling, Professor Ohm has struck again. Right under the very nose of Electrana, Professor Ohm has wasted energy right in The Energized Guyz' own backyard! Actually, not in the backyard. It was in the TV room. In the dead of night, Professor Ohm sneaked sneakily into the EG Headquarters and turned on the TV, the lamps, the Xbox, the computer, three ceiling fans and the light over Chief Bossy Pants' aquarium. Many kilowatt-hours were wasted and the fish got no sleep. Now they're cranky. If you spot this wily waster, please call 1-800-555-WATT.

Energy-Ville Public Library

The diabolical Professor Ohm is at it again! Last night, over 50 energy-efficient LED lightbulbs were stolen from the library. As if this weren't bad enough, the creepy criminal also snuck 50 less-efficient incandescent bulbs INTO the library and installed them in place of those energy-saving LED bulbs. Professor Ohm was last seen (and heard) noisily making his way down Westinghouse Way with a bulky bag of stolen bulbs and a copy of Shel Silverstein's book, A Light in the Attic. Ironically, the Energy-Ville Public Library has no attic. If you have any information on this dastardly deed, please call 1-800-555-WATT.

Joystix Arcade

---

It was on like Donkey Kong this Thanksgiving when Professor Ohm put down his turkey drumstick and decided to strike the arcade and waste energy. We needed a Defender to keep the arcade safe, but Professor Ohm was like a Street Fighter entering into Mortal Kombat as he cranked every possible thing in the building that required electricity up to full power. If we had been attacked by Space Invaders or hit by Asteroids, we couldn't have been more shocked by his wasteful ways! When the night was over, Professor Ohm's high score was over 5,000 kWh wasted. We hope it will soon be "game over" for this villain. Any citizens reporting information leading to Professor Ohm's arrest will be rewarded with a small token of our appreciation. Call 1-800-555-WATT.

Energy-Ville Elementary School

---

Thanks to Professor Ohm, it's an unlucky day in Energy-Ville. Over the weekend, the underhanded villain paid an after-hours visit to the Energy-Ville Elementary School campus. After turning on the hot water in every sink in every building, he turned on every light in the entire school, leaving them all to waste watts until Monday morning. He also stole a sandwich from the teachers' lounge and Mrs. Drucker really wants it back. If you see Professor Ohm (or the sandwich), do not attempt to apprehend him (or it) yourself!

Call 1-800-555-WATT.

Energy-Ville City Hall

Unhappy New Year – Professor Ohm is back! This time, he’s gone too far! Well, he went too far every time, but we’re really sick of it this time. While Energy-Ville citizens were enjoying their holiday, that dastardly no-gooder, Professor Ohm, entered City Hall through a heating vent. Speaking of heat, he turned the heater on full-blast even though no one was in the building to feel it. A huge number of kilowatt-hours were wasted and now the electric bill is through the roof (not literally). If you have any information on this anti-conservation caper, call 1-800-555-WATT.
